NAVY CHARGES ACCUSE M'VAY OF NEGLIGENCE

Captain Of Indianapolis Blamed For Loss Of Many On Board

880 LISTED AS LOST

Court Martial Charges Fail To Give Reason For Cruiser Sinking

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — The Navy today accused Capt. Charles B. McVay, Ill., of being directly responsible, through "negligence" and "inefficiency," for the loss of many men in the sinking of the cruiser Indianapolis.

About 880 persons were lost when the ship, skippered by McVay, exploded and sank off the Philippines July 30.

The charges against McVay were read at the opening of his court-martial at the Washington Navy yard before an eight-man court. He was accused of failing to order prompt abandonment of the 16,000 ton warship after it was "badly damaged and in sinking condition." As a result of his "culpable inefficiency," it was alleged, "many persons on board perished with the sinking ship."

The charges held that McVay's "negligence" in directing the Indianapolis just before the disaster resulted in "suffering a vessel of the Navy to be hazarded."

The captain, naval officer 26 years, was alleged to have "neglected and failed" to order the cruiser to pursue a zig-zag course in waters where enemy submarines might have been encountered.

Of the 1,196 officers and men aboard the Indianapolis when she went down, 880 have been listed by the Navy as lost. The remainder suffered injuries or exposure. It was five days after the disaster before the survivors were picked up.

The Navy's charges against McVay concerned only details involved in the actual sinking of the ship and the course it pursued. He was not blamed for events which occurred after the men were in the water or the lack of an escort for the cruiser, which was proceeding to Leyte from Guam. It had delivered atomic bomb material to Guam.

The charges did not specify how the 16-year-old Indianapolis met her fate. It is believed however, to have been torpedoed by a Japanese submarine or to have rammed a submarine.

The charges, signed by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, were addressed to Capt. Thomas J. Ryan, Jr., trial judge advocate. He read them to McVay. The accused was represented by Capt. John P. Cady of Providence, R. I., also a Navy officer.

Because of grave nature of the charges, Navy spokesmen believe that the trial will continue for at least two weeks, or even a month. Some witnesses, it was pointed out, may have to be brought here by the Navy from (Continued on Page Two)

One Airline Is Proposed By Senator

Government Chartered Line Would Combat British Aviation Policies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — Sen. Pat McCarran, D., Nev., revealed today that he will introduce immediately a new bill to set up a single, government-chartered international airline to combat British civil aviation policies.

Introduction of the bill is expected today. It probably will set off senatorial attacks on Britain for ordering Pan American Airways to confine itself to two weekly flights to London until it is willing to negotiate on transatlantic fares.

McCarran charged in an interview that Pan American was being "penalized" by the British for reducing its fare to $275 from the wartime figure of $572. He said that American overseas airline had gained permission to fly to London five times weekly only by "knuckling down" to Britain and keeping the old fare. Pan American backs McCarran's proposal for a single U. S. line in foreign operations.

State department and congressional sources said meanwhile that Britain's action may adversely affect Anglo-American financial negotiations, which are paralleling civil aviation talks.

These sources agreed that Congress may hesitate to approve a $3,500,000,000 loan to Britain if suitable air rights are not granted this country. House sources noted the Colmer postwar economic policy committee already has said British air policy is a "serious handicap" to American carriers and should be rectified before "concessions" are made by this country.

State department sources also (Continued on Page Two)

CLAMOR TO SEE QUINTUPLET CALVES

VISITORS FROM FAR AND NEAR are reported swarming at the Leo Schmidt farm near Fairbury, Nebraska, for a peep through barn windows at the five calves born recently to a seven-year-old cow that never expected fame. War Veterans Wanting To Be Farmers May Be In For Disappointment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — A large number of the million or more veterans who want to be farmers may be in for a disappointment.

These were the straws in the wind:

1. With close to 5,000,000 men out of service, only 700 veterans have gotten farm loans through the veterans administration under the GI bill of rights.
2. The Farm Security Administration, a better bet for the farm-minded veteran but strictly limited on funds, has helped 3,500 veterans with all types of loans hopes to set up 4,000 as farmers this fiscal year.
3. The national planning association estimated that only 750,000 farms will become available in the next five years, against a demand for 1,100,000. It indicated that many will be overpriced.

The planning association, in a recent publication, warned not only that demand for farms will outrun supply but that fewer farmers, not more, may be needed to run them. The reason: productivity per farmer is steadily increasing.

Government agencies though they will not admit to discouraging veterans from farming, nevertheless are being careful to point out to applicants for credit or information that many a dream farm has proved a land mine.

Current warnings by the agriculture department include these: that hazards in farming are great; work is hard, and the work week (Continued on Page Two)

HITLER SIGNED ORDER 4 MONTHS BEFORE MUNICH

Evidence Shows Nazis Had 'Propaganda Incidents' Ready To Release

PREPARED TO USE GAS

Germans Would Have Claimed Czechs Used It First, Records Disclose

NUERNBERG, Dec. 3 — Adolf Hitler had decided four months before Munich that Czechoslovakia must be destroyed, and he was pressing last minute military preparations to strike while negotiating with Neville Chamberlain, the war crimes court was told today.

Hitler signed a directive for the ultimate attack on Czechoslovakia on May 30, 1938, and had a plan ready in such detail that a whole list of "propaganda incidents" had been drawn up for possible use in connection with the attack.

The plans disclosed that the Germans were prepared to use gas against the Czechs and to justify their action with a claim that the Czechs had used it first.

The Nazi high command, according to documents introduced before the war crimes tribunal, had drafted a list of thirteen types of possible violations of international law which might be expected in the action against Czechoslovakia.

In each case German experts on propaganda and international law laid down in advance the justification the Germans would offer for such violations.

Discussing the use of gas, the high command report said that if possible "proof" that the Czechs used it first must be presented.

"If the assertion is unfounded," the report said, "or if only partially founded, the gas attack is to be represented as needed to carry out a justified reprisal in the same way the Italians did in the Abyssinian war."

Among the possibilities contemplated by the German high command were destruction of the British embassy in Prague during an air raid, the killing of British or French nationals during the course of the war and the violation of Polish territory by German aircraft.

In the case of German planes flying over Poland the experts recommended that an attempt be made to deny the violation. If that wasn't successful, it was suggested, an apology should be made to the Poles accompanied with an offer to compensate them for any damage.

The diary of Gen. Alfred Jodl was introduced to show the devious workings of Hitler's mind and the high command plans while the (Continued on Page Two)

Marshall Urges War Training

General Says U. S. Can Be Master Of Destiny For First Time

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — Gen. George C. Marshall said today that the United States can become master of its destiny for the first time in its history if it adopts universal military training.

"It will present to the world an available power so great and so readily mobilizable," he said, "that it will discourage any plans to upset the peace of the world."

Writing in the "United States at War" edition of the Army and Navy Journal, Marshall said he believed the performance of America's citizen army was the "most lasting monument" of World War II. Their bravery and heroism, he said, stemmed from their native courage—and thorough training.

"The new weapons—atomic explosives, supersonic rockets and those even more devastating that unquestionably will come in the years immediately ahead—make the careful preparatory training (Continued on Page Two)

TRUMAN ACTS ON STRIKES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — President Truman today asked congress for authority to establish a system of fact-finding boards to cope with labor disputes.

Expressing his disappointment that the labor-management conference had not produced an agreement on machinery to settle existing strikes, the President said it was now the duty of the government "to act on its own."

The President recommended establishment of a fact-finding system with boards to operate along the general lines of the emergency board provided for under the railway labor act.

The President, without waiting for congress to act, said he would set up immediately a fact-finding board in the dispute between the United Automobile Workers and General Motors Corp.

"While this board will not have the statutory powers which I hope the congress will soon authorize," the President said in a special message, "I am sure that the American people will expect the employer and the employees to cooperate with the board as fully as if appropriate legislation had already been passed."

Then the President appealed to the patriotism of both parties in the General Motors dispute and asked "all the workers to return to work immediately."

He also requested General Motors "to proceed energetically with full production."

After describing the General Motors strike as the "major obstacle holding up our reconversion program," the President said he was appointing a similar board to deal with the threatened strike involving the United States Steel Corp. and the United Steel Workers (CIO). He asked the employees to remain at work pending the report of the board findings and recommendations.

PROBERS TOLD PEARL HARBOR MEN INFORMED

Miles Tells Probers News On Codes Was Sent To Hawaii By Army

MARSHALL DUE THURSDAY

New Ambassador To Tell Story Before Leaving For China Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — The Pearl Harbor investigating committee was told today that Army officers in Hawaii knew before the sneak attack of Dec. 7, 1941, that Japanese diplomats were destroying codes, "indicating that something serious was about to happen."

Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, former head of military intelligence, said the information was in the hands of the intelligence officer of the Hawaiian defense command about Dec. 3, 1941, and was called to the attention of a staff council on Dec. 6, the morning before the attack.

Miles said the Hawaiian intelligence officer, a Colonel Bicknell, learned of the code-burning through the Navy and Robert Shivers, chief of the federal bureau of investigation at Honolulu.

Miles continued testimony started last week about Japanese code messages that were intercepted before Pearl Harbor.

The committee announced, meanwhile, that Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army chief of staff, will appear before it at 10 a. m. Thursday.

Marshall, who was sharply criticized by an Army board that investigated the Pearl Harbor defeat, will be given a chance to tell his side of the story before he leaves for Chungking as diplomatic successor to Patrick J. Hurley, resigned.

The Army board reported last August that Marshall did not keep the Hawaiian army command sufficiently informed of the danger of hostilities with Japan. Both President Truman and for- (Continued on Page Two)

IRANIANS MAKE NEW REQUEST

Russia Again Asked To Let Iranian Troops Into Troubled Areas

TEHRAN, Dec. 3 — The Iranian government today sent another note to Soviet Russia, demanding passage of Iranian troops into revolt torn Azerbaijan a few hours after the assassination of a high government official in the province.

Foreign Minister Anushiravan Sepahbodi handed the latest Iranian protest to the Soviet ambassador. It contained the same charges and demands as the previous note which the Russians summarily rejected last week.

The earlier note asserted that the Russians were assisting the "democrat" party's uprising in demand of autonomous status for Azerbaijan province. It also asserted that the Russians had been assisting rebellious Kurdish chiefs. They refused to allow Iranian reinforcements into the Russian occupation zone on grounds that they would foment trouble.

Feeling in the troubled border province was heightened by the murder of the governor of Maragheh, a town 50 miles south of Tabriz, the Azerbaijan capital, while he was walking in the street.

His murder was blamed on separatist extremists. A Colonel Moine-Azad and his orderly were wounded seriously at the same time.

Three American embassy observers just returned from Tabriz reported the city superficially quiet. A government garrison of 1,000 men was maintaining an uneasy calm. The air report said that elections were being held in Tabriz by Democrats who spoke Russian, but it was impossible to identify their nationality.

They said it was difficult to check reports of a large influx of "tourists" because the visitors blended into the polyglot population.

MASS FUNERAL PLANS ARE MADE

CHELAN, Wash., Dec. 3 — Mass funeral services will be held Wednesday for 15 children drowned in the plunge of a school bus into nearby Lake Chelan — although nine of the victims were left in their deep watery grave.

Four of the children's bodies and the body of driver Jack Randle were recovered from the submerged bus last Saturday. Two bodies were taken from the lake last Tuesday, the day after the tragedy.

Sixteen persons died in the accident. Five children and a woman passenger escaped before the bus rolled under the surface of the lake, of unfathomed depth in some places.

Stores and all public buildings in Chelan, a community of 2,300, will be closed to allow townspeople to attend public rites at the Masonic temple.

After the all-Protestant services, an inter-faith mass memorial will be held at the First Creek site of the tragedy for the nine others.

Divers informed bereaved families that no further efforts could be made to recover bodies believed to be in the lake. (Continued on Page Two)

WASHINGTON TO PARIS SERVICE BEGINS TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — Sixteen-hour service between Washington and Paris will be inaugurated today when the first Constellation Sky Giant delivered to Transcontinental & Western Airlines since the war takes off for Gander, New Foundland.

The only other stop on the 3,840-mile trip will be at Shannon airport, Ireland. Aboard the plane will be the crew of nine and a passenger list including Postmaster Robert Hannegan, other government and diplomatic officials and newsmen.

The plane will carry two shipments of penicillin as gifts to the lord mayor of Dublin and the president of the Paris city council from Mayor John E. Kerrigan of Boston and Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago.

It also will carry 2,000,000 additional units of penicillin being rushed to Paris in an effort to save the life of Henri Launev, Paris dress designer who is seriously ill.

Today's flight marks the first use of constellation for civilian passenger service. In a shakedown cruise last week, the plane broke the Atlantic speed record between Newfoundland and Ireland.

'STAR' REBUTTAL WITNESS FAILS TO MAKE SENSE

MANILA, Dec. 3 — The military commission trying Gen. Yamashita dismissed the prosecution's "star" rebuttal witness in disgust today after declaring his two days of fantastic testimony did not "make heads nor tails."

Col. Hideo Hishiharu, who claimed he was Yamashita's adjutant general, testified both that Yamashita nodded agreement to the execution of 600 guerrillas and that he "did not think" he ordered the deaths.

Commission President Maj. Gen. R. B. Reynolds interrupted cross-examination in an effort to make the witness explain his conflicting statements.

Failing, he declared it was apparent Nishiharu had been nothing more than "a messenger boy" between Yamashita and the Japanese tribunals trying prisoners of war.

Reynolds later ordered a night session "to clear up the entire subject" after the defense recalled Yamashita to explain Japanese court-martial jurisdiction.

ARREST OF JAP PRINCE ORDERED

Many High-Ranking Nips Included In New MacArthur List

TOKYO, Dec. 3 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur ordered the Japanese government today to arrest 59 more war criminal suspects, including for the first time a prince of imperial blood, two former premiers and many top flight militarists, industrialists and propagandists.

The imperial suspect was Field Marshal Prince Morimasa Nashimoto, 71, who was a supreme war councillor and lord custodian of national shrines.

(After a series of conferences with imperial household minister Sotaro Ishiwata, the Japanese government reportedly asked MacArthur to rescind the order for Nashimoto's arrest. The request was presented supreme allied headquarters by Foreign Minister Yoshida, acting for the government. No reason was given for the request.)

The former premiers were Baron Kichiro Hiranuma, who served in 1939 when Japan was paving the way for Axis alliance, and Koki Hirota, who served as premier in 1936 and was a member of the advisory council in 1940.

Arrests of four of the country's leading publishers were ordered. They were Yoshio Kodama, former publisher of the Yomato Shimbun; Hiroshi Shimomura, former vice president of Asahi; Insukey Furuno, former head of the now defunct Domei news agency; and Matsutaro Shoriki, president of Yomiuri Hochi.

Others in the list included: Admiral Soemu Toyoda, former chief of the Japanese naval staff; Ginfiro Jutawara, former cabinet (Continued on Page Two)

UNION REVOLT MAY BLOCK PLAN

Local Protests Order To Make GM Parts For Other Auto Manufacturers

DETROIT, Dec. 3 — The United Automobile Workers (CIO) faced a possible intra-union rebellion today in seeking to reopen some General Motors strike-bound parts plants under an agreement with the corporation.

UAW President R. J. Thomas' tentative agreement with G-M president C. E. Wilson that some plants would be reopened to aid other auto manufacturers brought swift protests from Robert Carter, head of the UAW local at the General Motors plant. (Continued on Page Two)

NEW DRUG WILL BRING RELIEF FOR ALLERGIES

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — Relief for hayfever sufferers and victims of asthma, hives and other allergies is promised in a new drug, benadryl, announced today by the University of Illinois school of medicine.

The drug was said by its discoverers Dr. Earl R. Loew, associate professor of pharmacology at the university, to bring relief in 30 to 60 minutes.

Dr. Loew said the new compound prevents ill effects from histamine, a chemical released by the body cells during an allergic attack and considered the cause of allergy symptoms. Loew said that one out of every 10 persons suffers from one of the major allergies.

Dr. Loew emphasized that experiments with the new drug assured marked symptomatic relief but promised no cure. He estimated that three doses daily would be necessary for continued relief.

The anti-histaminic properties of the drug first were demonstrated by Dr. Loew in 1943 and first produced by Dr. George Rieveschl, Jr., of the Parke-Davis laboratories in Detroit.

The drug, known chemically as B-dimethylaminocetyl benzhydrol ether hydrochloride, has not yet been released for general use.

TOMMY MANVILLE TO TAKE EIGHTH WIFE ON SUNDAY

NEW ROCHELLE, Dec. 3 — Tommy Manville, the asbestos heir, confirmed today that he will make Georgina Campbell, 27, beautiful English-born columnist, his eighth wife.

Miss Campbell was enroute here from Hollywood aboard the Golden State Limited.

"This is it," Manville said.

Miss Campbell was first to announce their betrothal, confiding to reporters as she boarded the train in Los Angeles. She said she planned to continue her newspaper career after her marriage.

Manville said he approved of his wife continuing to work as long as she takes some time off for a honeymoon.

Manville said Miss Campbell will arrive in New York Thursday. They will be married Sunday.

PROBERS TOLD PEARL HARBOR MEN INFORMED

mer secretary of war Henry L. Stimson have defended the former staff chief.

Miles told of Bicknell's knowledge of the Japanese code-burning to correct an impression he gave last week that Army officers in Hawaii were not kept informed about Japanese developments.

He testified last week that the war department in Washington, which knew of the code destruction orders from Tokyo, did not pass along that information to overseas commanders, including Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short at Hawaii. The Navy, it was brought out, sent such advice to Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

At the start of today's session it was announced that witnesses from the Army signal corps and naval communications will be asked to explain delays, mentioned by Miles, in decoding and translating intercepted Japanese messages.

Evidence before the committee shows that some messages sent by the Japanese before Dec. 7 were not decoded and translated until as long as 22 days after the attack.

Miles said he wanted to correct any impression that the war department was "complacent" about the delay. He asserted that the amazing thing was not the delay, but the fact that the messages could be decoded and translated at all.

Marshall's appearance was put off until Thursday. Assistant committee counsel Gerhard Gesell said, to give counsel time to lay the groundwork for "the Army story" with other witnesses.

AUTO ACCIDENT STOPS CAREER OF 'KID OUTLAW'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 3—Matt Kimes, notorious "kid outlaw" of the 1920's, was held by the federal bureau of investigation today after he was run down by a truck on a north Little Rock street corner.

Kimes, on "leave of absence" from the Oklahoma state prison, had been hunted throughout the Southwest for the past three months in connection with a $17,000 Morton, Tex., bank robbery Sept. 5.

Suffering from a broken leg and head injuries, the boy bandit of 20 years ago gave his name as "Leo A. Woods" of Miami, Okla., when he was admitted to the Baptist state hospital Saturday night.

Hospital authorities became suspicious when Kimes asked them not to notify his family about the accident and refused to answer questions concerning the more than $1,600 he has in his possession.

Kimes admitted his identity after hours of questioning only when confronted with a report from Miami police that the real Leo Woods had been robbed of his billfold and credentials several weeks ago. FBI agents eluded his identity with a fingerprint test.

PROBE OF STATE OFFICIALS MAY FOLLOW HEARING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—The house un-American activities committee may make a comprehensive investigation of the entire state department after it hears the charges of ex-ambassador Patrick J. Hurley, a committee member said today.

Rep. Karl Mundt, R. S. D., said the course of the inquiry would be determined by "what Hurley has to tell us" about alleged pro-Communists in the U. S. foreign service. In quitting as envoy to China last week, Hurley charged that certain career diplomats were actively supporting Chinese Communists against Chiang Kai-Shek.

"If Gen. Hurley says the individuals he names are the only ones sabotaging our foreign policy, then we will probably decide to confine our investigation to them," Mundt said. "If he says that other state department men whom he cannot name are doing it too, the committee in all likelihood, will decide to expand its inquiry."

Hurley is scheduled to appear before the house committee after he testifies before the senate foreign relations committee Wednesday. The senate inquiry will deal only with Hurley's specific charges. It will not cover the entire foreign service or state department.

'IKE' ON JOB

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pitched in on his new job as Army chief of staff today after recovering from a severe cold. Eisenhower moved into Gen. George C. Marshall's former office in the pentagon building.

War Veterans Wanting To Be Farmers May Be In For Disappointment

is seven days; cash returns are usually small (more than half of all farmers in 1940 had gross income of less than $1,000).

The agriculture department advises would-be farmers who have not lived on a farm to give it a try as a hired hand before making a decision. It suggests also renting or sharecropping as a starter.

GI, credit and FSA loans together have been insignificant in comparison to the number of farm-minded veterans who would be expected to need credit to get started.

GI guarantees have been little used largely because economic factors combined with legal provisions make the law tough to comply with.

FSA lends money directly to veterans who are good farm risks, and can't get adequate credit elsewhere. It has helped 33,000 farm families become farm owners and has lent money to nearly a million farmers, including 35,000 veterans of World War I. It has $25,000,000 to lend World War II vets this year.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. JAMES R. HOTT
Catharine B. Hott, 76, widow of James Robert Hott, and a former resident of Circleville, died unexpectedly at 2:45 a. m. Sunday at her home in Columbus following a heart attack.

Mrs. Hott was a native of Pickaway county and was the daughter of George W. and Amelia Reed Rhoads. Her husband died in 1937. Survivors include a son, Clarence R. Hott, Columbus, 5 grand-children and 4 great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Otis Peters, Columbus.

She was a member of the Rob-town U. B. church from where the funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. with burial by C. E. Hill of Williamsport in the Darbyville cemetery.

Friends may call at the Schoedinger chapel, Columbus, until noon Tuesday.

W. H. LESLIE

W. H. Leslie, 70, an odd-job carpenter of the rear of 142 East Mill street, died in Berger hospital Sunday at 8:45 a. m. of a cerebral hemorrhage, after being found lying on Clinton street by the Circleville police Sunday at 6:30 a. m.

Leslie was admitted to the hospital at 7:40 a. m. after suffering an apparent stroke. Attempts were being made Monday to contact relatives at Hamilton. He is reportedly survived by a sister at Hamilton and two daughters by a divorced wife. The body is at the Deffenbaugh funeral home. Cause of the death was certified by Coroner Lloyd Jones as a cerebral hemorrhage.

Leslie's last job was work done for John Neuding at the new cheese factory on West High street. Relatives were expected to arrive in Circleville to get the body by Tuesday.

CHARLES STEVENSON

Charles E. (Hack) Stevenson, 84, died Saturday at 11:30 p. m. at the home of a nephew, Albert E. Reid at 123 West Corwin street after being ill the past year.

A native of Ashville, he was a canning processor for many years of the C. E. Sears Co., and a life member of the Knights of Pythias. He had been a member for 58 years.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Mader chapel with the Rev. George L. Troutman officiating. Friends may call at the Mader funeral home.

Burial will be in Forest cemetery. Knights of Pythias will hold services at the funeral home Monday evening. Members are to meet at the lodge hall at 7 p. m.

He is survived by two brothers, Edward Stevenson, Columbus, and James Stevenson Chillicothe.

ALBERT WILLIAMSON

Funeral services were held Sunday at 10 A. M. in the Morgan-town Church of Christ in Christian Union for Albert Williamson, 41, who died Friday in a Dayton hospital following a traffic accident.

He was a native of Ross county and is survived by his widow, who was Hazel Vandemark and six children. Other survivors are three sisters and three brothers one of whom, Dallas Williamson, lives at Ashville.

Burial was in Gardner cemetery near Morgantown.

DETECTOR TOO LATE
A lie detector, which was brought from Toledo Sunday, arrived too late to be used by the county. Efforts were made to inform the Toledo police that the detector was not needed, but due to the absence of Prosecuting Attorney Kenneth L. Robbins at the prosecutor's convention at Cleveland, the lie detector was on its way before the call not to bring it was made. The lie detector was being brought here for possible use in connection with the investigation of an alleged criminal attack on a 5-year-old girl.

Diving operations ended yesterday when the school bus, which came from a cliff top road after striking a rock during a snowstorm, was lifted out and brought here.

The bus, resting on its top, was found at 210 feet and dragged to within 15 feet of the surface before the trapped victims were removed.

State police, after inspecting the wrecked bus, reported no evidence of mechanical defects at the time of the crash. They disclosed that the emergency brakes had not been applied, indicating the driver had no warning of impending disaster.

Specific charges against the suspects were not disclosed. Previously 259 war criminal suspects, including 213 Japanese, have been arrested.

SHERIFF'S CAR DAMAGED DURING ARREST OF MAN

Deputy Lester E. Wolford of the sheriff's department found the going pretty tough when he tried to arrest a man on charges of drunk-driving Monday morning.

Wolford was cruising about delivering summons papers when he spotted the man, Lee Bussert, 47, of route 2 Amanda, on North Court street. Wolford, believing that the man was driving while intoxicated, attempted to halt him.

The man would not be halted, however, Wolford said, and a 15-mile chase up the Lithopolis pike to the Derr farm resulted. The driver would not let the sheriff's car pull in front of him, Wolford reported.

Finally when he was stopped, one fender of the sheriff's department's 1940 Ford was torn off and the front fender of Bussert's car, a model A Ford was damaged. "I tried to pull in front of him and he hooked into me," Wolford said.

Bussert is being held on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

eral Motors AC spark plug plant in Flint, Mich.

Carter, who had unsuccessfully opposed Thomas for the UAW presidency at the last union election, said in Flint that he had the backing of the greater Flint industrial council's 60,000 members.

Thomas immediately issued a statement in which he explained that the international union had no intention of arbitrarily ordering any locals back to work.

He said any back-to-work movements in the system-wide General Motors strike would have to be voted by the locals involved.

Wilson had suggested production be resumed at eight GM parts plants that manufacture supplies for other automobile makers.

Thomas said union acceptance of the offer needed to keep in operation.

Thomas said his statement was issued to "correct certain erroneous impressions which seem to have arisen from misinterpretation of the letter" he sent Wilson.

"In accordance with the well-established democratic procedure of the UAW," Thomas said, "no group of strikers will go back to work under any circumstances until they have voted to do so."

Carter's objection to the Wilson plan indicated that it would be rejected if ever brought to a vote in parts plants locals, despite the fact that Thomas had described it as "generous."

The Harrison Radiator company UAW local at Lockport, N. Y., one of the eight involved, announced at a meeting yesterday that it would stay on strike until the situation had been clarified.

Meanwhile, UAW negotiators were scheduled to meet with Ford company representatives today to discuss the company's demand that the union pay $5 a day per man for wildcat strikers.

The union has not indicated what its counter-proposal to the demand would be, but it was expected that presentation of a counter-proposal would be the first piece of business. The union's demand for a 30 percent wage increase also was on the agenda for today's Ford meeting.

Negotiations with Chrysler, the other member of the automobile industry's big three, were scheduled for resumption tomorrow.

It was disclosed that the union had extended the expiration of its Chrysler contract from last Friday until tomorrow midnight.

The General Motors contract runs until April and was reopened on wage negotiations under a special clause. The Chrysler contract would have expired last Friday if the union and company had not agreed to the extension.

No further action in the General Motors stalemate was scheduled until Wednesday when UAW Vice President Walter P. Reuther will meet with GM vice president Harry Anderson to discuss the company's complaint against the use of force by pickets.

This meeting was expected to pave the way for resumed discussion of the wage and other disputes, since Anderson said settlement of the picketing issue was the only bar to talks on all the disputes.

UNO COMMISSION DEBATING SETUP TO BE FORMED

LONDON, Dec. 3—The United Nations preparatory commission opened debate today on its fundamental dispute—whether the UNO assembly is to be organized along the national lines of the San Francisco conference or of the old League of Nations.

The San Francisco plan, which has the backing of Soviet Russia, Yugoslavia and many Latin-American states, would entail creation of a general committee on which all 51 of the United Nations would be represented. Members of the executive committee would be elected from the general committee.

Chief advocate of the League of Nations system—under which the members of the general committee would be chosen on a competency basis rather than on national prestige—was the British delegation, led by Philip Noel-Baker, himself a veteran of the old league.

seizure of Czechoslovakia was being planned.

An undated entry between March and May, 1938, said "the fuhrer mentions that there is no hurry to solve the Czech question because Austria must be digested first."

On May 21, the Czechs concentrated troops on the German-Czech frontier—without the slightest cause, Jodl contended—and Hitler changed his mind. He decided he couldn't wait.

"The consequences would lead to a loss of prestige of the fuhrer, which he would not be willing to accept again," Jodl wrote.

On May 30, 1938 Hitler signed "directive green" the master plan for the invasion of Czechoslovakia on which the high command had been working for many weeks.

Jodl wrote disgustedly in his diary, "the whole contrast between the fuhrer's intuition that we must do it this year and opinion of the army that we cannot do it yet becomes acute."

The Luftwaffe had plans ready in early June to fight France in event she decided to declare war if Germany moved against the Czechs, another document showed. A memorandum of Joachim von Ribbentrop's showed that Italy knew of Hitler's intentions.

Benito Mussolini asked for sufficient warning before the attack for him to get his French frontier defenses ready. The Hungarians, too, wanted a share of the Czech spoils but asked more time to prepare.

Through all the scheming, though Hitler contended that England and France would remain tranquil if the Germans struck, "England would not recklessly risk her empire," he said.

American Prosecutor Sidney Alderman announced that the British would open their case against the 20 Nazi leaders tomorrow. Thereafter the British and American prosecutors will alternate in presenting evidence. The French will follow with details of crimes against humanity in the west, and the Russians will cover the east.

The trial may end in early March, according to present indications.

SEAMEN WALK OFF SHIPS IN PROTEST ACTION

By United Press
Merchant seamen started walking off an estimated 125 ships in New York harbor at 8 a. m. today as part of a 24-hour work stoppage in the nation's ports in protest against alleged conversion to commercial use of ships that could bring American overseas troops back home.

Local officials of the national maritime union (CIO) said some 6,000 to 10,000 seamen would be involved in the demonstration in the nation's biggest port before the end of the 24-hour period.

Union spokesmen said troops, sailors, tankers and ships carrying relief supplies would not be affected. They cited as an example of the type of ship to be struck a vessel formerly operated by the Navy as a troopship which now was loaded with a cargo of Christmas trees for Havana.

Some 90,000 merchant seamen and longshoremen were to participate in the stoppage in the nation's ports.

One Airline Is Proposed By Senator

knowledge that this government was virtually powerless to negotiate on airline fares. They said the next move is "up to Pan American."

McCarran's previous attempt to legislate for an all American flag line was narrowly defeated by the senate commerce committee. He said the present situation was the only possible result of this government's "absolute lack of any policy on civil aviation."

He declared that foreign countries were now in position to play off one American carrier against another, drawing willing ones into cartels and keeping out others.

McCarran's bill may provoke a dispute on committee jurisdiction. Chairman Burton K. Wheeler, D. Mont., of the interstate commerce committee contends his group should consider all air legislation. He is emphatically opposed by Chairman Josiah W. Bailey, D. N. C., of the commerce committee.

The state department was believed to hope the aviation squabble with Britain can be ironed out before the loan deal is presented to congress.

The department appeared satisfied by the British explanation that Pan American acted unilaterally and set a rate which British experts do not believe is sound economically. Britain said it would accept any rate recommended by the international air transport association or the civil aeronautics board. IATA members were generally agreed at their Montreal meeting in October that $375 would be a fair rate.

One government official said Pan American "appears to be in a weak position because it never produced any figures to prove that $275 is a profitable fare."

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the company feels no compulsion to publish its operating costs. He pointed out that operation of the DC-4 landplane is cheaper than flying boats and added:

"If they would let us make the number of trips we want to and from England we could operate at a profit. We have been flying airplanes for 18 years and always made a profit. We wouldn't cut fares to cut off our own noses by losing money."

Pan American announced yesterday in New York that it had asked the U. S. government to relay to the British government an offer to raise its New York to London rate to $375 if allowed five trips a week.

Pan American said it understood that its competitor, American Airlines, had been offered the three trips a week cancelled by the British government, if they were flown at the $572 fare.

mer secretary of war Henry L. Stimson have defended the former staff chief.

Miles told of Bicknell's knowledge of the Japanese code-breaking to correct an impression he gave last week that Army officers in Hawaii were not kept informed about Japanese developments.

He testified last week that the war department in Washington, which knew of the code destruction orders from Tokyo, did not pass along that information to overseas commanders, including Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short at Hawaii. The Navy, it was brought out, sent such advice to Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

At the start of today's session it was announced that witnesses from the Army signal corps and naval communications will be asked to explain delays, mentioned by Miles, in decoding and translating intercepted Japanese messages.

Evidence before the committee shows that some messages sent by the Japanese before Dec. 7 were not decoded and translated until as long as 22 days after the attack.

Miles said he wanted to correct any impression that the war department was "complacent" about the delay. He asserted that the amazing thing was not the delay, but the fact that the messages could be decoded and translated at all.

Marshall's appearance was put off until Thursday. Assistant committee counsel Gerhard Gessell said, to give counsel time to lay the groundwork for "the Army story" with other witnesses.

AUTO ACCIDENT STOPS CAREER OF 'KID OUTLAW'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 3.—Matt Kimes, notorious "kid outlaw" of the 1920's, was held by the federal bureau of investigation today after he was run down by a truck on a north Little Rock street corner.

Kimes, on "leave of absence" from the Oklahoma state prison, had been hunted throughout the Southwest for the past three months in connection with a $17,000 Morton, Tex., bank robbery Sept. 5.

Suffering from a broken leg and head injuries, the boy bandit of 20 years ago gave his name as "Leo A. Woods" of Miami, Okla., when he was admitted to the Baptist state hospital Saturday night.

Hospital authorities became suspicious when Kimes asked them not to notify his family about the accident and refused to answer questions concerning the more than $1,000 he has in his possession.

Kimes admitted his identity after hours of questioning only when confronted with a report from Miami police that the real Leo Woods had been robbed of his billfold and credentials several weeks ago. FBI agents eluded his identity with a fingerprint test.

PROBE OF STATE OFFICIALS MAY FOLLOW HEARING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The house un-American activities committee may make a comprehensive investigation of the entire state department after it hears the charges of ex-ambassador Patrick J. Hurley, a committee member said today.

Rep. Karl Mundt, R., S. D., said the course of the inquiry would be determined by "what Hurley has to tell us" about alleged pro-Communists in the U. S. foreign service. In quitting as envoy to China last week, Hurley charged that certain career diplomats were actively supporting Chinese Communists as against Chiang Kai-Shek.

"If Gen. Hurley says the individuals he names are the only ones sabotaging our foreign policy, then we will probably decide to confine our investigation to them," Mundt said. "If he says that other state department men whom he cannot name are doing it too, the committee in all likelihood, will decide to expand its inquiry."

Hurley is scheduled to appear before the house committee after he testifies before the senate foreign relations committee Wednesday. The senate inquiry will deal only with Hurley's specific charges. It will not cover the entire foreign service or state department.

War Veterans Wanting To Be Farmers May Be In For Disappointment

is seven days; cash returns are usually small (more than half of all farmers in 1940 had gross income of less than $1,000).

The agriculture department advises would-be farmers who have not lived on a farm to give it a try as a hired hand before making a decision. It suggests also renting or sharecropping as a starter.

GI, credit and FSA loans together have been insignificant in comparison to the number of farm-minded veterans who would be expected to need credit to get started.

GI guarantees have been little used largely because economic factors combined with legal provisions make the law tough to comply with.

FSA lends money directly to veterans who are good farm risks, and can't get adequate credit elsewhere. It has helped 38,000 farm families become farm owners and has lent money to nearly a million farmers, including 35,000 veterans of World War I. It has $25,000,000 to lend World War II vets this year.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. JAMES R. HOTT
Catharine B. Hott, 76, widow of James Robert Hott, and a former resident of Circleville, died unexpectedly at 2:45 a. m. Sunday at her home in Columbus following a heart attack.

Mrs. Hott was a native of Pickaway county and was the daughter of George W. and Amelia Reed Rhoads. Her husband died in 1937. Survivors include a son, Clarence R. Hott, Columbus, 5 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Otis Peters, Columbus.

She was a member of the Robtown U. B. church from where the funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. with burial by C. E. Hill of Williamsport in the Darbyville cemetery.

Friends may call at the Schoedinger chapel, Columbus, until noon Tuesday.

W. H. LESLIE

W. H. Leslie, 70, an odd-job carpenter of the rear of 142 East Mill street, died in Berger hospital Sunday at 8:45 a. m. of a cerebral hemorrhage, after being found lying on Clinton street by the Circleville police Sunday at 6:30 a. m.

Leslie was admitted to the hospital at 7:40 a. m. after suffering an apparent stroke. Attempts were being made Monday to contact relatives at Hamilton. He is reportedly survived by a sister at Hamilton and two daughters by a divorced wife. The body is at the Deffenbaugh funeral home. Cause of the death was certified by Coroner Lloyd Jones as a cerebral hemorrhage.

Leslie's last job was work done for John Neudinger at the new cheese factory on West High street. Relatives were expected to arrive in Circleville to get the body by Tuesday.

CHARLES STEVENSON

Charles E. (Hack) Stevenson, 84, died Saturday at 11:30 p. m. at the home of a nephew, Albert E. Reid at 125 West Corwin street after being ill the past year.

A native of Ashville, he was a canning processor for many years of the C. E. Sears Co. and a life member of the Knights of Pythias. He had been a member for 58 years.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Mader chapel with the Rev. George L. Troutman officiating. Friends may call at the Mader funeral home. Burial will be in Forest cemetery. Knights of Pythias will hold services at the funeral home Monday evening. Members are to meet at the lodge hall at 7 p. m.

He is survived by two brothers, Edward Stevenson, Columbus, and James Stevenson Chillicothe.

ALBERT WILLIAMSON

Funeral services were held Sunday at 10 A. M. in the Morgan-town Church of Christ in Christian Union for Albert Williamson, 41, who died Friday in a Dayton hospital following a traffic accident.

He was a native of Ross county and is survived by his widow, who was Hazel Vandemark and six children. Other survivors are three sisters and three brothers one of whom, Dallas Williamson, lives at Ashville.

Burial was in Gardner cemetery near Morgantown.

DETECTOR TOO LATE

A lie detector, which was brought from Toledo Sunday, arrived too late to be used by the county. Efforts were made to inform the Toledo police that the detector was not needed, but due to the absence of Prosecuting Attorney Kenneth L. Robbins at the prosecutor's convention at Cleveland, the lie detector was on its way before the call not to bring it was made. The lie detector was being brought here for possible use in connection with the investigation of an alleged criminal attack on a 5-year-old girl.

Specific charges against the suspects were not disclosed. Previous to 259 war criminal suspects, including 218 Japanese, have been arrested.

SHERIFF'S CAR DAMAGED DURING ARREST OF MAN

Deputy Lester E. Wolford of the sheriff's department found the going pretty tough when he tried to arrest a man on charges of drunk driving Monday morning.

Wolford was cruising about delivering summons papers when he spotted the man, Lee Bussert, 47, of route 2 Amanda, on North Court street. Wolford, believing that the man was driving while intoxicated, attempted to halt him.

The man would not be halted, however. Wolford said, and a 15-mile chase up the Lithopolis pike to the Derr farm resulted. The driver would not let the sheriff's car pull in front of him, Wolford reported.

Finally when he was stopped, one fender of the sheriff's department's 1940 Ford was torn off and the front fender of Bussert's car, a model A Ford was damaged. "I tried to pull in front of him and he hooked into me," Wolford said.

Bussert is being held on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

NAVY CHARGES ACCUSE MVAY OF NEGLIGENCE

Captain Of Indianapolis Blamed For Loss Of Many On Board

their Pacific or Atlantic fleet assignments.

The opening of the court-martial is one step in the Navy's attempt to learn full details of the Indianapolis' sinking. The Navy inspector general's department is conducting parallel investigations of events preceding and following sinking of the ill-fated ship. Should the inquiry indicate additional negligence on the part of other officers, they too will be brought to trial.

McVay was graduated from Annapolis in June, 1919, as an ensign and was promoted to his present rank on June 18, 1942. He assumed command of the Indianapolis on Nov. 18, 1944. Previously he had been awarded the silver star for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action" as executive officer of the cruiser Cleveland during the bombardment of Kolombangara in the Solomons.

Under Navy law, should McVay be found guilty of the charges, he would be subject to dismissal from the naval service, confinement or a reduction in rank. On the other hand, as in civil courts, he could be acquitted and restored to duty.

Navy court decisions are reviewed by the judge advocate's department to determine legality of the proceedings. Forrestal or the President then has the power to reduce the sentence if the accused is guilty. Neither has the power to increase a court-martial sentence and only the President can commute one.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Completion of 37 months of service in the Army Air Corp by S/Sgt. Arthur R. Adkins of North Court street has been marked by the presentation of his discharge certificate at Drew Field, Fla.

One of more than 23,000 men discharged at the field, Sgt. Adkins, received the following message of appreciation from Gen. Y. H. Taylor, commander at the field, "The Army Air Forces deeply appreciates your services. You have helped to make it possible for the aerial combat arm to contribute immeasurably to victory."

Pfc. Charles E. Dollison, 1085 Washington street, has been discharged from the Army Air Forces at Portland, Ore., to return to his home with his wife in Circleville. He entered the Army at Fort Thomas, Ky., and was an Army cook. Before entering the Army, his occupation was farming.

Cpl. Paul F. McGinnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McGinnis, Kingston, has the following new address: Cpl. Paul F. McGinnis, 253rd Com. Engr. Bn., APO 758, c-o P. M., New York, N. Y.

YOUNG MEN, VETS MAY ENLIST IN MARINE CORPS

Young men between the ages of 17 and 25 may now enlist in the U. S. Marine Corps for periods of two, three or four years, Major Kenneth C. Houston, officer in charge of the Cincinnati district announced today. This new regulation went into effect on December 1, 1945.

Under the new regulations, veterans may also reenlist for periods of two, three or four years, providing that they have not reached their 32nd birthday. Veterans who reenlist for the new two year period will be granted a furlough up to sixty days. This varies however with the time that they have remained away from the service. For those who will choose the three or four year enlistment, a ninety day furlough is offered under the same conditions. All pay and allowances remain in force for veterans who reenlist. An added attraction for the veteran is his choice of station.

Educational facilities have expanded greatly with the war and are being conducted with the opportunity to complete high school and college credits through the Marine Corps Institute and the Armed Forces Institute. Many courses and subjects are covered. For additional information contact the U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Room 242, Post Office Building, Cincinnati.

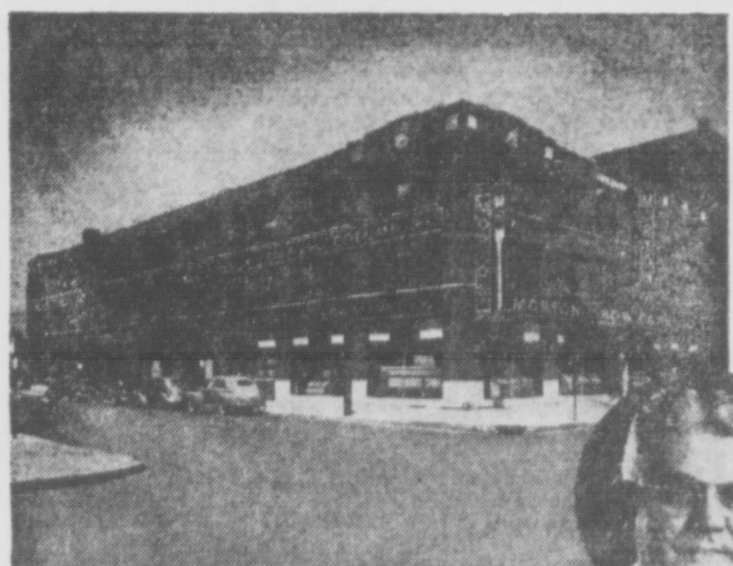

The government printing office, opened in 1861, was put in charge of a Superintendent of Public Printing. In 1867 the title was changed to Congressional Printer, and in 1876 to Public Printer, which it now is.

Service Lists Report Many Servicemen Now Home Or On Their Way

News of the discharge of one local serviceman and of the arrival in the United States of another has been received by the parents. Eugene Hampp, East Franklin street, was discharged at Fort Meade, Md., Saturday and is now home.

A telephone call, causing much excitement, was received by Mrs. Russell Skaggs, 213 East Union street, early Sunday morning from her husband, S-Sgt. Russell Skaggs, who had just returned from 20 months of overseas service during which time he participated as a tankman with the 3rd Armored Division through some of the most bitter fighting in Europe.

Joy and excitement caused was typical of that experienced by families and friends of 15 other servicemen from this area, news of whose discharge was received Monday. Mrs. Skaggs relayed the news to S-Sgt. Skaggs' parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Skaggs and Irene, 121 West Water street. They were so elated about the news that they got up at 5 a. m. and hopped over to Russell's brother, George's house, to tell him the news. Russell is now on his way to Indiantown Gap, Pa., to receive his discharge and is expected home Tuesday or Wednesday.

Lists received Monday revealed that 11 men from this area have already received their discharges after arriving at the separation center last week. They are as follows: T-5 Bernard O. Poling, route 2, Laurelville; Sgt. Parker E.

Goldrick, Laurelville; Pfc. George E. Davis, route 4 Circleville; Cpl. William D. Heskell, Williamsport; Cpl. Kenneth O. Roberts, Derby; Cpl. Wayne B. Reno, Mt. Sterling; T-4 Melvin E. Azbell, Laurelville; Pvt. Homer H. Conley, route 3, Circleville; Pfc. Paul W. Seymour, route 3, Wilson avenue, and First Lt. Richard O. Mader, 428 East Main street.

Word was received of the discharge of one man from the Coast Guard and one from the Navy. Discharged from the U. S. Coast Guard at Detroit, Mich., was Ph. M. 3-C Robert E. Strous, Laurelville, after serving 32 months, having been on duty in the American, European and Asiatic-Pacific theaters. He will return home to his wife and then plans to take up residence at Madison, Wis. From the Navy at Great Lakes, Ill., William G. Neff, route 2 Orient, was discharged.

From the Army at Camp Atterbury, Ind., Pfc. Harrison Hill, 217 West Huston street, was discharged and at Fort Knox, Ky., Pvt. Martin E. Barthelmas, 118 West Franklin street, was discharged.

ANNUAL 'LODGE OF SORROW' IS HELD BY ELKS

A beautiful memorial service, known as the "Lodge of Sorrow" was conducted by Circleville Lodge No. 77, BPOE, at the home Sunday afternoon, in honor of Elks who have passed away since the local lodge was founded.

The Hon. Charles B. Zimmerman, judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio, gave the memorial address, at the services which paid tribute to 161 Elks, now in the "Great Beyond," eight of whom died in the past year. Clydus Fausnaugh, exalted ruler presided. The public was invited to attend.

Thomas Gainsborough, famed English artist of the 18th century, was one of the original members of the Royal Academy, but withdrew after being offended at the place offered to one of his paintings, "The Three Princesses."

POST-WAR ARGUMENTS

AFTER the shooting war comes the war of words at Washington. It is a sad thing after such great victories to dim their glory with another deluge of argument and recrimination. This, unfortunately, seems to be a part of "the American way." It is hard to recall a war that has ended otherwise.

It is well to have the truth and the inner facts regarding any phases of the two great wars we have recently been obliged to fight against the militarist nations, Germany and Japan. Rightly told, they become forever an essential part of our national history, precious for the remembrance and instruction derived from them. Admittedly it is often difficult to get at the roots of such conflicts, and to produce clear and honest pictures of what occurred, and how and why, and where the glory or blame belongs.

This is required for the sake of the men who planned and directed the campaigns, along with those who fought them, and for the people who supported their efforts. But it is in the spirit of the historian, rather than the accuser and prosecutor, that such information should be gathered and given to the public. Flagrant dishonesty or incompetence should naturally be revealed, and punished where punishment seems called for. But in judging, it is always necessary to keep in mind the spirit and purpose of the service rendered or attempted.

BACK TO RAILROADS

MAYBE the automobile and airplane are not destined, after all, to monopolize transportation. Maybe the railroad still has enough life in it to come back with a bang, and start a revival that will make this branch of transportation as thrilling as it was when grandpa was a boy, and far more comfortable and convenient.

All this, and much more, is worked out by Edward Hungerford's new book, "A Railroad for Tomorrow", with the precise date of the transportation miracle only 15 years ahead. It is unlikely that all the improvements mentioned in this prophetic work can be established by that time, if ever; but it is reassuring to feel that there really is a future for terrestrial transportation, possibly as thrilling in its novelties as its past has been, and pleasanter.

We have "backed into two world wars", as Maj. Gen. Pat Hurley says, but anyway we didn't back out of them.

Those Japanese women are certainly getting emancipated. Why, their nurses are even demanding decent food.

With all those career men careening around at Washington, you never know whether they're going to do something brilliant or crazy.

Truman's, Prime Ministers' Inefficiency and Slovenliness
Signatures Show Contrasts Mar Post-War U. S. Picture
By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist
● WASHINGTON—A student of handwriting would enjoy the signatures of President Truman, Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Canadian Prime Minister William Mackenzie King as they showed on the official document of atom bomb control.
Mr. Truman put his name down with a flourish. The middle initial "S" joined the "T" for Truman with a swirl half an inch high. There was a swish about the whole signature that should discourage those who complain the new president is slow at getting anything done.
Prime Minister Attlee did a tidy bit of writing. He skipped his first name, "Clement." Joined the "C" for which it stood to his middle initial "A" with a restrained upward stroke of the pen. And wrote "Attlee's" so compactly and so sparsely you had to guess at what the tiny letters stood for.
Prime Minister Mackenzie King showed a rather bold slanting penmanship. At first. But he dwindled away on "King" and thus failed to carry out the promise of "Mackenzie." The Canadian prime minister also skipped his own first two initials, "W. L." in his official autograph.
I was interested in studying the atom bomb statement as issued by the White House that the words "City of Washington" were used. Some folk call us "Washington, D. C." This was President Woodrow Wilson's idea. But when Warren G. Harding became president he ordered a return to the official geographical form of the founding fathers: "The City of Washington."
● BOBBING UP IN THE SURGE of ideas that all but clog this swirling capital are the same queries. You hear them in the corridors and committee rooms of the Capitol, in the drawing rooms and sitting rooms of the citizenry. You overhear them in the buses

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—What Pat Hurley said was true.

For many months, evidence has been leaking from the state department suggesting the permanent underlying clique was unsympathetic with top policy, and undermining it in subtle little ways. Yet there was nothing sufficiently provable to warrant printing.

The men within the department who have noticed the condition have been so frightened they dared not speak, even privately, outside of the department.

Because of the stands they have taken within the department they knew they were suspect to the reigning group, and occasionally thought they were being followed or their telephone conversations tapped.

Even business men dealing there have noticed the condition, compared notes about it among themselves, and wondered its extent. But until the retiring ambassador to China spoke out with direct charges, the matter never reached the public eye.

State Secretary Byrnes, my informants say, does not know the facts, nor did his predecessor, Mr. Stettinius. Byrnes promised a departmental reorganization and brought in a few top men, but this was as far as his reorganization went.

The clique was strengthened under Stettinius, who functioned largely as a personal representative of the President, allowing the department to run itself.

And today, more men are being taken into the clique than are leaving it. The various bureaucratic holdovers of the Roosevelt regime, losing their war jobs in other departments, have been seeking couches in state.

It is a peculiar condition and has never been accurately defined, not even by Mr. Hurley in his restricted charges. The men of the clique do not hold meetings and agree to undermine this or that. They are merely of one mind on some basic ideas.

For one thing, they are unsympathetic with American foreign policy today. For another, they agree in their distrust of anyone who would question Russia in the slightest upon any subject. They are not Communists but their minds are guided by the Communist grooves of thought.

Objectionable things are to them "fascistic." Hence Chiang Kai Shek is a Fascist; Russia, a democracy, but they branch off from Communist grooves to others strangely enough.

The British have the best diplomacy, they think; hence Britain likewise can do no wrong. They are known also as "the striped trousers set", affecting the uniform of the Downing street diplomats beyond necessities.

To define what specific undermining they do is difficult. They are an invisible wall of resistance. Hurley had two men in the Far Eastern division in mind in his charges.

These two, he apparently caught telling the Chinese to pay no attention to him, and spreading around at cocktail parties the notion that the American foreign policy was temporary, that it would not back Chungking in postwar. Beyond this apparently he had no convincing evidence.

His purpose in reversing himself abruptly and deciding to quit with a challenging public statement, was to force a congressional investigation. A thorough one no doubt would force a reorganization which (Continued on Page Six)

No Age Group Safe From The Mumps

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THERE is a large group of diseases called communicable diseases or catching diseases. Among these are included mumps or parotitis. It is probably the least catching of the group.
In mumps, there are swelling and tenderness of one or more of the glands that form the saliva which empties into the mouth.

Parotid Glands
In most instances the salivary glands known as the parotid glands are affected. Either one or both sides may be involved. Other salivary glands known as the submaxillary and sublingual glands may be involved.
It is believed that mumps is due to a filtrable virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through a porcelain filter. It is thought that the virus gets into the blood and is then carried to the salivary glands.

Almost Any Age
Mumps may occur in persons of almost any age, except very young infants, who seem to have some protection against the disease which they have inherited from their parents. It occurs most often in those between five and fifteen years of age.
It is more common during the colder months but may appear at any time of the year. In almost all instances, one attack produces complete protection against a second attack of the disorder.

Facial Swelling
It would appear that mumps develops in about 17 to 20 days after a person has been exposed to the infection. In most instances, the first noticeable symptom is swelling of the face. The swelling is located most often just in front of and below the ear. In some cases

Why is it that nobody in this country seems to want to do any real work, now that the war is over?
Why is it that every form of the general inefficiency and slovenliness you meet everywhere is blamed on—"But we can't get anybody to do anything."
If this last is true, what is the meaning of the complaint, the national alibi almost—"Millions of people can't find jobs—What is this country coming to?"
So far—strikes and more strikes!
● ANOTHER BIG CAPITAL QUERY: What of the plans for reorganization in government offices?
And the secondary question mark: Why has President Truman not done more with this proposed reorganization?
To both of these questions the answer might be almost the same. It is not simple to reorganize anything. Reorganization means, first—discharge much of the personnel. Very good. But who wants to be discharged? Not I. Nor you. Nor do any of the useful friends who led you to the nice job you have today mean to rejoice if you reduce the office force.
Organizations of all kinds gather workers by the handful. It is almost impossible to uproot without loosening the whole plant. Particularly reluctant to reorganize are the small bureau chiefs who wish to keep their own departments as large as possible. Big staffs give the chiefs seeming importance. Make the responsibility seem tremendous. Don't streamline them until they are as slick as a sprig of willow.
Is it smart to offend politicians who may be helpful in some future election by discharging the constituents they put on your payroll? The reorganizers have many problems.
● A DASH OF NORMAL HUMAN rivalry always favors the Capitol hearings on overseas matters. Members of Congress are likely to say in questioning witnesses at hearings something like this:
"Mr. Chairman, there was one matter the congressman preceding me did not bring out in the testimony. This was probably because he was not in North Africa or Australia or China or Timbuctoo. I was in these and other vital spots, Mr. Chairman, and the conditions I saw there appeared to me as follows . . ."

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
ANDREW MacWHIRTER sat on the terrace of the Easterhead Bay hotel and stared across the river to the frowning height of Stark Head opposite.
He was engaged at the moment in a careful stocktaking of his thoughts and emotions.
Here, seven months ago, he had attempted to take his own life. Chance, nothing but chance, had intervened. Was he, he wondered, grateful to that chance?
He decided, soberly, that he was not. True, he felt no present disposition to take his life. That phase was over for good. He was willing to address himself now to the task of living, not with enthusiasm nor even with pleasure, but in a methodical day-after-day spirit. You could not, that he admitted, take your own life in cold blood. There had to be some extra flip of despair, of grief, of desperation or of passion. You could not commit suicide merely because you felt that life was a dreary round of uninteresting happenings.
He was now, he supposed, to be considered quite a fortunate man. Fate, after having frowned, had smiled instead. But he was in no mood to smile back. His sense of humor was grimly tickled when he thought of the interview to which he had been summoned by that rich and eccentric peer, Lord Cornely.
"You're MacWhirter? You were with Herbert Clay? Clay got his driving license endorsed, all because you wouldn't say he was going at 20 miles an hour. Lived he was! Told us about it one night at the Savoy. 'Blasted pig-headed Scot!' he said. I thought to myself that's the kind of chap I want! Man who can't be bribed to tell lies. You won't have to tell lies for me. I don't do my business that way. I go about the world looking for honest men—and there are blamed few of them."
The little peer had cackled with laughter, his shrewd monkey-like face wrinkled up with mirth. MacWhirter had stood stolidly, not amused.
But he had got the job. A good job. His future was assured. In a week's time he was to leave England for South America.
He hardly knew what it was that had made him choose to spend his few last days of leisure where

POST-WAR ARGUMENTS
AFTER the shooting war comes the war of words at Washington. It is a sad thing after such great victories to dim their glory with another deluge of argument and recrimination. This, unfortunately, seems to be a part of "the American way." It is hard to recall a war that has ended otherwise.
It is well to have the truth and the inner facts regarding any phases of the two great wars we have recently been obliged to fight against the militarist nations, Germany and Japan. Rightly told, they become forever an essential part of our national history, precious for the remembrance and instruction derived from them. Admittedly it is often difficult to get at the roots of such conflicts, and to produce clear and honest pictures of what occurred, and how and why, and where the glory or blame belongs.
This is required for the sake of the men who planned and directed the campaigns, along with those who fought them, and for the people who supported their efforts. But it is in the spirit of the historian, rather than the accuser and prosecutor, that such information should be gathered and given to the public. Flagrant dishonesty or incompetence should naturally be revealed, and punished where punishment seems called for. But in judging, it is always necessary to keep in mind the spirit and purpose of the service rendered or attempted.

BACK TO RAILROADS
MAYBE the automobile and airplane are not destined, after all, to monopolize transportation. Maybe the railroad still has enough life in it to come back with a bang, and start a revival that will make this branch of transportation as thrilling as it was when grandpa was a boy, and far more comfortable and convenient.
All this, and much more, is worked out by Edward Hungerford's new book, "A Railroad for Tomorrow", with the precise date of the transportation miracle only 15 years ahead. It is unlikely that all the improvements mentioned in this prophetic work can be established by that time, if ever; but it is reassuring to feel that there really is a future for terrestrial transportation, possibly as thrilling in its novelties as its past has been, and pleasanter.

We have "backed into two world wars", as Maj. Gen. Pat Hurley says, but anyway we didn't back out of them.

Those Japanese women are certainly getting emancipated. Why, their nurses are even demanding decent food.

With all those career men careening around at Washington, you never know whether they're going to do something brilliant or crazy.

Truman's, Prime Ministers' Inefficiency and Slovenliness
Signatures Show Contrasts Mar Post-War U. S. Picture
By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist
● WASHINGTON—A student of handwriting would enjoy the signatures of President Truman, Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Canadian Prime Minister William Mackenzie King as they showed on the official document of atom bomb control.
Mr. Truman put his name down with a flourish. The middle initial "S" joined the "T" for Truman with a swirl half an inch high. There was a swish about the whole signature that should discourage those who complain the new president is slow at getting anything done.
Prime Minister Attlee did a tidy bit of writing. He skipped his first name, "Clement." Joined the "C" for which it stood to his middle initial "A" with a restrained upward stroke of the pen. And wrote "Attlee" so compactly and so sparsely you had to guess at what the tiny letters stood for.
Prime Minister Mackenzie King showed a rather bold slanting penmanship. At first. But he dwindled away on "King" and thus failed to carry out the promise of "Mackenzie." The Canadian prime minister also skipped his own first two initials, "W. L." in his official autograph.
I was interested in studying the atom bomb statement as issued by the White House that the words "City of Washington" were used. Some folk call it "Washington, D. C." This was President Woodrow Wilson's idea. But when Warren G. Harding became president he ordered a return to the official geographical form of the founding fathers: "The City of Washington."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—What Pat Hurley said was true.
For many months, evidence has been leaking from the state department suggesting the permanent underlying clique was unsympathetic with top policy, and undermining it in subtle little ways. Yet there was nothing sufficiently provable to warrant printing.
The men within the department who have noticed the condition have been so frightened they dared not speak, even privately, outside of the department.
Because of the stands they have taken within the department they knew they were suspect to the reigning group, and occasionally thought they were being followed or their telephone conversations tapped.
Even business men dealing there have noticed the condition, compared notes about it among themselves, and wondered its extent. But until the retiring ambassador to China spoke out with direct charges, the matter never reached the public eye.
State Secretary Byrnes, my informants say, does not know the facts, nor did his predecessor, Mr. Stettinius. Byrnes promised a departmental reorganization and brought in a few top men, but this was as far as his reorganization went.
The clique was strengthened under Stettinius, who functioned largely as a personal representative of the President, allowing the department to run itself.
And today, more men are being taken into the clique than are leaving it. The various bureaucratic holdovers of the Roosevelt regime, losing their war jobs in other departments, have been seeking couches in state.
It is a peculiar condition and has never been accurately defined, not even by Mr. Hurley in his restricted charges. The men of the clique do not hold meetings and agree to undermine this or that. They are merely of one mind on some basic ideas.
For one thing, they are unsympathetic with American foreign policy today. For another, they agree in their distrust of anyone who would question Russia in the slightest upon any subject. They are not Communists but their minds are guided by the Communist grooves of thought.
Objectable things are to them "fascistic." Hence Chiang Kai Shek is a Fascist; Russia, a democracy, but they branch off from Communist grooves to others strangely enough.
The British have the best diplomacy, they think; hence Britain likewise can do no wrong. They are known also as "the striped trousers set", affecting the uniform of the Downing street diplomats beyond necessities.
To define what specific undermining they do is difficult. They are an invisible wall of resistance. Hurley had two men in the Far Eastern division in mind in his charges.
These two, he apparently caught telling the Chinese to pay no attention to him, and spreading around at cocktail parties the notion that the American foreign policy was temporary, that it would not back Chungking in postwar. Beyond this apparently he had no convincing evidence.
His purpose in reversing himself abruptly and deciding to quit with a challenging public statement, was to force a congressional investigation. A thorough one no doubt would force a reorganization which (Continued on Page Six)

No Age Group Safe From The Mumps

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THERE is a large group of diseases called communicable diseases or catching diseases. Among these are mumps, measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and others. It is probably the least catching of the group.
In mumps, there is swelling and tenderness of one or more of the glands that form the saliva which empties into the mouth.
Parotid Glands
In most instances the salivary glands known as the parotid glands are affected. Either one or both sides may be involved. Other salivary glands known as the submaxillary and sublingual glands may be involved.
It is believed that mumps is due to a filtrable virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through a porcelain filter. It is thought that the virus gets into the blood and is then carried to the salivary glands.
Almost Any Age
Mumps may occur in persons of almost any age, except very young infants, who seem to have some protection against the disease which they have inherited from their parents. It occurs most often in those between five and fifteen years of age.
It is more common during the colder months but may appear at any time of the year. In almost all instances, one attack produces complete protection against a second attack of the disease.
Facial Swelling
It would appear that mumps develops in about 17 to 20 days after a person has been exposed to the infection. In most instances, the first noticeable symptom is swelling of the face. The swelling is located most often just in front of and below the ear. In some cases there may be slight fever, 99 degrees to 100 degrees before the swelling occurs or together with it.
Some patients often suffer from chills, loss of appetite, sickness of the stomach, vomiting, diarrhea, headache, and disturbed sleep. In other instances the patient may not feel at all sick and may resent having to stay in bed.
Of course, a child with mumps should be kept out of contact with other children to keep from spreading the disorder. If there is fever, the patient should be kept in bed. There is no need to limit the foods eaten unless chewing is difficult or painful. In such instances, soft or liquid foods may be employed. Either hot or cold applications to the painful areas may give some relief.
There are various pain-relieving drugs which the physician will prescribe if he believes they are necessary. As a general rule, mumps does not often produce complications but occasionally it may affect the sex glands, the pancreas, which is a gland within the abdomen, and other glands such as the thyroid, thymus, breasts, and tear glands.
A severe complication which might occur is inflammation of the brain. Hence, it is important that the condition be promptly treated.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. A. R.: Please tell me what causes hiccups and how to stop them.
Answer: Hiccups are due to spasms of the respiratory muscles and diaphragm. They frequently occur in nervous individuals. The condition is not a dangerous one, unless it continues and cannot be controlled. Digestive disturbances may be responsible for the symptoms. Hiccups also occur in certain nervous diseases.

You could not, that he admitted, take your own life in cold blood. There had to be some extra flip of despair, of grief, of desperation or of passion. You could not commit suicide merely because you felt that life was a dreary round of uninteresting happenings.
He was now, he supposed, to be considered quite a fortunate man. Fate, after having frowned, had smiled instead. But he was in no mood to smile back. His sense of humor was grimly tickled when he thought of the interview to which he had been summoned by that rich and eccentric peer, Lord Cornely.
"You're MacWhirter? You were with Herbert Clay? Clay got his driving license endorsed, all because you wouldn't say he was going at 20 miles an hour. Livid he was! Told us about it one night at the Savoy. 'Blasted pig-headed Scot!' he said. I thought to myself that's the kind of chap I want! Man who can't be bribed to tell lies. You won't have to tell lies for me. I don't do my business that way. I go about the world looking for honest men—and there are blamed few of them."
The little peer had cackled with laughter, his shrewd monkey-like face wrinkled up with mirth. MacWhirter had stood stolidly, not amused.
But he had got the job. A good job. His future was assured. In a week's time he was to leave England for South America.
He hardly knew what it was that had made him choose to spend his few last days of leisure where he now was. Yet something had drawn him there. Perhaps the wish to test himself—to see if there remained in his heart any of the old despair.
Mona? How little he cared now. She was married to the other man. He had passed her in the street one day without feeling any emotion. He could remember his grief and bitterness when she left him, but they were past now and gone.
He was recalled from these thoughts by an impact of wet dog and the frenzied appeal of a newly made friend, Miss Diana Brinton, aged 13.
"Oh, come away, Don. Come away. Isn't it awful? He's rolled on some fish or something down on the beach. You can smell him yards away. The fish was awfully dead, you know."
MacWhirter's nose confirmed this assumption.
"In a sort of crevice on the rocks," Miss Brinton. "I took him into the sea and tried to wash it off, but it doesn't seem to have done much good."
MacWhirter agreed. Don, a wire-haired terrier of amiable and loving disposition, was looking hurt by the tendency of his friends to keep him firmly at arm's length.
"Sea water's no good," said MacWhirter. "Hot water and soap's the only thing."
"I know. But that's not so jolly easy in a hotel. We haven't got a private bath."
In the end MacWhirter and Diana surreptitiously entered by the side door with Don on a lead and smuggling him up to MacWhirter's bathroom, a thorough cleansing took place and both MacWhirter and Diana got very wet. Don was very sad when it was all over. That disgusting smell of soap again—just when he had found a really nice perfume such as any other dog would envy. Oh, well, it was always the same with humans—they had no decent sense of smell.
The little incident had left MacWhirter in a more cheerful mood. He took the bus into Saltington, where he had left a suit to be cleaned.
The girl in charge of the 24-Hour Cleaners looked at him vacantly.
"MacWhirter, did you say? I'm afraid I isn't ready yet."
"It should be." He had been promised that suit the day before and even that would have been 48 and not 24 hours. A woman might have said all this. MacWhirter merely scowled.
"There's not been time yet," said the girl, smiling indifferently.
"Nonsense."
The girl stopped smiling. She snapped.
"Anyway, it's not done," she said.
"Then I'll take it away as it is," said MacWhirter.
"Nothing's been done to it," the girl warned him.
"I'll take it away."
"I dare say we might get it done by tomorrow—as a special favor." "I'm not in the habit of asking for special favors. Just give me the suit, please."
Giving him a bad-tempered look, the girl went into a back room. She returned with a clumsily done up parcel which she pushed across the counter.
MacWhirter took it and went out.
He felt, quite rationally, as though he had won a victory. Actually it merely meant that he would have to have the suit cleaned elsewhere.
He threw the parcel on his bed when he returned to the hotel and looked at it with annoyance. Perhaps he could get it sponged and pressed in the hotel. It was not really too bad—perhaps it didn't actually need cleaning?
He undid the parcel and gave vent to an expression of annoyance. Really, the 24-Hour Cleaners were too inefficient for words. This wasn't his suit. It wasn't even the same color! It had been a dark blue suit he had left with them. Impertinent, inefficient muddlers.
He glanced furtively at the label. It had the name MacWhirter all right. Another MacWhirter? Or some stupid interchange of labels.
Staring down vexedly at the crumpled heap, he suddenly sniffed.
Surely he knew that smell—a particularly unpleasant smell. . . . Yes, that was it. Diana and her dog. Absolutely and literally stinking fish!
He bent down and examined the suit. There it was, a discolored patch on the shoulder of the coat. On the shoulder—
Now that, thought MacWhirter, is really very curious. . . .
Anyway, next day he would have a few grim words with the girl at the 24-Hour Cleaners. Gross mismanagement!

ROSE E. WALLEN, CECIL W. BOND WED IN CHURCH

Tall baskets of chrysanthemums decorated the chancel of the United Brethren church at Ashville for the open church wedding of Miss Rose Ethel Wallen, Ashville and Cecil Woodrow Bond, Ironton.

The Rev. O. W. Smith, pastor of the church read the service as the young couple stood before an altar banked with ferns and lighted with tall cathedral candles.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallen walked down the aisle on the arm of her father as Miss Erma Lee Younk, pianist played the wedding march. She was preceded by her three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Dummitt, Ashville as matron of honor, Miss Easter Wallen Ashville, Miss Amanda Wallen Columbus and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Leonard Wallen, Duval, who acted as brides maids.

Fred Wassmuth Columbus, fiancé of Miss Amanda Wallen served as best man for Petty Officer Bond.

For her wedding the bride wore a white satin gown with lace panel, the form fitting bodice had a sweetheart neckline with satin ribbons binding the neckline and falling to the waistline in the front. The puff sleeves were full length extending to a point over the wrists. Her shoulder length veil was of lace and fell from a lace cap. White gardenias and chrysanthemums formed the bridal bouquet which she carried. A lace and linen handkerchief borrowed from a friend, Miss Younk, was carried by the bride as something old and borrowed.

Dresses worn by the attendants were made similarly, the matron of honor and Miss Amanda Wallen wearing blue satin and net gowns and Miss Easter Wallen and Mrs. Wallen wearing pink dresses of marquisette. They were made with full skirts and short puff sleeves and their shoulder corages were made of matching flowers.

A reception for between 125 and 150 friends of the young couple was held in the basement of the church following the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wallen wore a black street length dress and the bridegroom's mother also wore a black dress. Their shoulder corages were of gardenias.

The new Mrs. Bond is a graduate of the Ashville high school and has been employed at the office of

GREAT LAKES FIELD WRECKED

'Destruction Squad' Takes Over After Sailors' Win From Irish

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Dec. 3.—The 'Great Lakes' "destruction squad" tore down the bleachers around Ross field today, officially ending four years of football at the great naval training station.

Great Lakes plans never to outfit another major grid squad. It is returning to its peacetime program, and football was only a proving ground for war here.

Outstanding teams, made up solely of enlisted men, played under the Navy banner at the base during the first World War and four brilliant squads carried on the tradition during the World War II era.

Of all the teams, the 1945 Blue-jackets, under Lt. Paul Brown, compiled the worst record but yet the greatest single victory. It was this squad most of the men mediocre players, which started in defeat last September but ended with the top victory of them all Saturday—a stunning 39 to 7 conquest of Notre Dame.

While the Middles from Annapolis fell before Army at Philadelphia, the enlisted men at Great Lakes saved the day for the Navy as they fired a victory salute to the blue-clad gobs scattered around the world.

Leading the sailors were three seamen who voluntarily postponed their discharge in order to play this one game, Guard Jean Lamour, Halfback Grover Clemmer, and Fullback Marion Motley.

They were the players who fashioned the day's No. 1 upset.

The sailors, 20-point underdogs, fought to a 13 to 7 halftime lead and then exploded in the last quarter for four touchdowns on Halfback Frank Aschenbrenner's 11-yard end sweep, Motley's 44-yard pass interception return, George Terlep's five-yard pass to Bill O'Connor and Dick Ottele's 50-yard dash.

The victory gave Great Lakes six triumphs, three defeats and one tie for the season, its poorest record during its 1942-45 existence. But it gave the Sailors a winning margin in their war-time series with Notre Dame at two victories, one defeat and a tie.

CIRCLEVILLE KEGGLERS WIN FROM CHILLICOTHE 5

DEER SEASON OPENS MONDAY IN OHIO FOREST

Many Pickaway county hunters were in southern Ohio Monday taking advantage of the opening of the 1945 deer season.

Applications for deer hunting permits swamped the district offices of the Ohio Division of Conservation in the final week before opening day. The season opened on December 3 and will close December 8. Latest tabulations indicated that about 8,000 hunters, nearly as many as last year, would take to the woods during the seven-day season.

No estimate of the number of deer has been offered to indicate the hunters' chances in more than 60,000 acres of forests open to hunting in Adams, Pike and Scioto counties. Surveys by experienced field men have indicated the herds were more widely scattered than in former years and that bagging his quota of one buck would be a feather in the cap of the hunter this year.

There was no charge for deer permits this year and they were given to all who applied for them. Hunting is permitted only with shotguns loaded with single ball or slug and bows and barbed arrows. Hunters are required to wear red as a safety feature, and to display their regular state hunting license on the backs of their hunting coats.

MIT CHAMPIONS MUST DEFEND TITLES SOON

NEW YORK Dec. 3.—All boxing champions who have not signed for defenses of their titles must do so before April 1, and must make defenses before June 1, the National Boxing association announced today, after a week-end meeting at the Hotel St. Moritz.

Brown-skinned Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., who is recognized as lightweight champion by the N. B. A., was ordered to sign before Jan. 1 for a defense or vacate the title.

Three champions already have signed for defenses: heavyweight Joe Louis in June; welterweight Freddie (Red) Cochrane on Feb. 1; and Bantamweight Manuel Ortiz in January.

HAMEY IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF AA OFFICIALS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—Representatives of the International and Piedmont leagues planned meetings today in preparation for Wednesday's official opening of the minor baseball league seasons.

American Association officials met yesterday and elected H. Roy Hamey, president and general manager of the Kansas City Blues, as president of the league, succeeding George Trautman. Trautman resigned to become general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Hamey's selection was unanimous. Mike Kelly, president of the Minneapolis Millers, was chosen vice-president.

TIGERS TO PLAY LOGAN TUESDAY

CHS 5 Tunes Up Monday For Second Game Of New Basketball Season

Circleville high school cagers will attempt to correct some of the mistakes they made Friday night against Lancaster Monday evening before journeying to Logan Tuesday night for their second game of the 1945-46 basketball season.

The Tuesday night game opens a busy week for the Tigers. On Friday they will help the veteran Chillicothe Red Devils open their season. It will be the first South Central Ohio league game for both teams.

At Logan Tuesday night the Tigers will be facing an unknown quantity. Coach Tom Armstrong is reported to have a good team again this season but no other information is available.

Coach John Daugherty is expected to use the same boys that faced Lancaster Friday. He indicated Monday some shuffling of starters may be made Tuesday but the varsity squad for the present.

The Tigers, bowing to Lancaster, did not look as bad as the score indicates. The Lancaster height gave the Gales possession of the ball often. If Logan is near the size of the Tigers they will have a good chance to break into the victory column.

INDUSTRIAL CAGE LEAGUE PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Plans for the organization of an industrial basketball league in Circleville will be made Monday at 7:30 p. m. at a meeting to be held in The Herald office.

All persons interested in the formation of such a league are invited to attend the meeting.

ARMY RULES AS TOP COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM

Southern California Wins Rose Bowl Berth; 'Bama Keeps On Winning

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Army wore the national collegiate football crown at a jaunty angle as it packed its pads today while the gridiron gang started to sweat out a four-week wait for the bowl contests which wind up the season.

The Cadets ruled the roost after their expected 32 to 13 conquest of Navy. It was Army's second straight undefeated season and made the West Pointers national bosses with sectional underdogs in Alabama, Texas, Southern California, and Indiana.

Alabama's Crimson Tide joined Army and Oklahoma A. & M. in the all-winning column as it took the Southeastern conference championship with a 55 to 13 triumph over Mississippi State.

Southern California's Trojans meanwhile won the right to face 'Bama in the Rose Bowl as they captured the Pacific Coast conference crown with a 26-15 win over U. C. L. A.

Oklahoma's Aggies, through with their season's schedule, and their Sugar Bowl opponents, St. Mary's of California, both sat out the week-end.

Texas came through with a 20 to 10 victory over the Texas Aggies Thursday to clinch the Cotton Bowl berth and the Southwest conference title. They will battle Missouri's Big Six kings in the Dallas tilt on New Year's Day. Two other conference games saw Baylor upset Rice, 17-14, and Southern Methodist flatten T. C. U., 34 to 0.

Miami virtually clinched an Orange Bowl bid as it conquered Auburn, 33 to 7, and was expected to receive the nod today to face Holy Cross.

Chief victim of the week-end was Notre Dame. Great Lakes, a surprise winner when it knocked the Irish out of the undefeated class in 1943, did it again with a 39 to 7 triumph. North Carolina walloped Virginia, 27-18, and in intra-state rivalries in the south, LSU downed Tulane, 33-0, and Georgia bested Georgia Tech by the same count.

By 1862, mining had come into prominence in Colorado.

GREAT LAKES FIELD WRECKED

'Destruction Squad' Takes Over After Sailors' Win From Irish

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Dec. 3.—The Great Lakes' "destruction squad" tore down the bleachers around Ross field today, officially ending four years of football at the big naval training station.

Great Lakes plans never to outfit another major grid squad. It is returning to its peacetime program, and football was only a proving ground for war here.

Outstanding teams, made up solely of enlisted men, played under the Navy banner at the base during the first World War and four brilliant squads carried on the tradition during the World War II era.

Of all the teams, the 1945 Blue-jackets, under Lt. Paul Brown, compiled the worst record but yet the greatest single victory. It was this squad most of the men mediocre players, which started in defeat last September but ended with the top victory of them all Saturday—a stunning 39 to 7 conquest of Notre Dame.

While the Middles from Annapolis fell before Army at Philadelphia, the enlisted men at Great Lakes saved the day for the Navy as they fired a victory salute to the blue-clad gobs scattered around the world.

Leading the sailors were three seamen who voluntarily postponed their discharge in order to play this one game. Guard Jean Lamour, Halfback Grover Clemmer, and Fullback Marion Motley.

They were the players who fashioned the day's No. 1 upset. The sailors, 20-point underdogs, fought to a 13 to 7 halftime lead and then exploded in the last quarter for four touchdowns on Halfback Frank Aschenbrenner's 11-yard end sweep, Motley's 44-yard pass interception return, George Terlep's five-yard pass to Bill O'Connor and Dick Ottele's 50-yard dash.

The victory gave Great Lakes six triumphs, three defeats and one tie for the season, its poorest record during its 1942-45 existence. But it gave the Sailors a winning margin in their war-time series with Notre Dame at two victories, one defeat and a tie.

CIRCLEVILLE KEGGLERS WIN FROM CHILLICOTHE 5

Circleville bowlers won 2336-2222 from a Chillicothe team Sunday with Harold Stonerock hitting a 588 high score. The local team won two of the three games.

DEER SEASON OPENS MONDAY IN OHIO FOREST

Many Pickaway county hunters were in southern Ohio Monday taking advantage of the opening of the 1945 deer season.

Applications for deer hunting permits swamped the district offices of the Ohio Division of Conservation in the final week before opening day. The season opened on December 3 and will close December 8. Latest tabulations indicated that about 8,000 hunters, nearly as many as last year, would take to the woods during the seven-day season.

No estimate of the number of deer has been offered to indicate the hunters' chances in more than 60,000 acres of forests open to hunting in Adams, Pike and Scioto counties. Surveys by experienced field men have indicated the herds were more widely scattered than in former years and that bagging his quota of one buck would be a feather in the cap of the hunter this year.

There was no charge for deer permits this year and they were given to all who applied for them. Hunting is permitted only with shotguns loaded with single ball or slug and bows and barbed arrows. Hunters are required to wear red as a safety feature, and to display their regular state hunting license on the backs of their hunting coats.

MIT CHAMPIONS MUST DEFEND TITLES SOON

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—All boxing champions who have not signed for defenses of their titles must do so before April 1, and must make defenses before June 1, the National Boxing association announced today, after a week-end meeting at the Hotel St. Moritz.

Brown-skinned Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., who is recognized as lightweight champion by the N. B. A., was ordered to sign before Jan. 1 for a defense or vacate the title.

Three champions already have signed for defenses: heavyweight Joe Louis in June; welterweight Freddie (Red) Cochrane on Feb. 1; and Bantamweight Manuel Ortiz in January.

HAMEY IS NAMED PRESIDENT OF AA OFFICIALS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—Representatives of the International and Piedmont leagues planned meetings today in preparation for Wednesday's official opening of the minor league season.

American Association officials met yesterday and elected H. Roy Hamer, president and general manager of the Kansas City Blues, as president of the league, succeeding George Trautman, Trautman resigned to become general manager of the Detroit Tigers.

Hamer's selection was unanimous. Mike Kelly, president of the Minneapolis Millers, was chosen vice-president.

CHS 5 Tunes Up Monday For Second Game Of New Basketball Season

Circleville high school cagers will attempt to correct some of the mistakes they made Friday night against Lancaster Monday evening before journeying to Logan Tuesday night for their second game of the 1945-46 basketball season.

The Tuesday night game opens a busy week for the Tigers. On Friday they will help the veteran Chillicothe Red Devils open their season. It will be the first South Central Ohio league game for both teams.

At Logan Tuesday night the Tigers will be facing an unknown quantity. Coach Tom Armstrong is reported to have a good team again this season but no other information is available.

Coach John Daugherty is expected to use the same boys that faced Lancaster Friday. He indicated Monday some shuffling of starters may be made Tuesday but the same players will make up the varsity squad for the present.

The Tigers, bowing to Lancaster, did not look as bad as the score indicates. The Lancaster height gave the Gales possession of the ball often. If Logan is near the size of the Tigers they will have a good chance to break into the victory column.

INDUSTRIAL CAGE LEAGUE PLANS WILL BE DISCUSSED

Plans for the organization of an industrial basketball league in Circleville will be made Monday at 7:30 p. m. at a meeting to be held in The Herald office.

All persons interested in the formation of such a league are invited to attend the meeting.

ARMY RULES AS TOP COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM

Southern California Wins Rose Bowl Berth; 'Bama Keeps On Winning

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Army wore the national collegiate football crown at a jaunty angle as it packed its pads today while the gridiron gang started to sweat out a four-week wait for the bowl contests which wind up the season.

The Cadets ruled the roost after their expected 32 to 13 conquest of Navy. It was Army's second straight undefeated season and made the West Pointers national bosses with sectional understudies in Alabama, Texas, Southern California, and Indiana.

Alabama's Crimson Tide joined Army and Oklahoma A. & M. in the all-winning column as it took the Southeastern conference championship with a 55 to 13 triumph over Mississippi State.

Southern California's Trojans meanwhile won the right to face 'Bama in the Rose Bowl as they captured the Pacific Coast conference crown with a 26-15 win over U. C. L. A.

Oklahoma's Aggies, through with their season's schedule, and their Sugar Bowl opponents, St. Mary's of California, both sat out the week-end.

Texas came through with a 20 to 10 victory over the Texas Aggies Thursday to clinch the Cotton Bowl berth and the Southwest conference title. They will battle Missouri's Big Six kings in the Dallas tilt on New Year's Day. Two other conference games saw Baylor upset Rice, 17-14, and Southern Methodist flatten T. C. U., 34 to 0.

Miami virtually clinched an Orange Bowl bid as it conquered Auburn, 33 to 7, and was expected to receive the nod today to face Holy Cross.

Chief victim of the week-end was Notre Dame. Great Lakes, a surprise winner when it knocked the Irish out of the undefeated class in 1943, did it again with a 39 to 7 triumph. North Carolina walloped Virginia, 27-18, and in intra-state rivalries in the south, LSU downed Tulane, 33-0, and Georgia bested Georgia Tech by the same count.

By 1862, mining had come into prominence in Colorado.

Xavier Cugat, who appears with his orchestra on the Andrews Sisters show, "N-K Musical Showroom," Wednesday, is a combination of diverse talents. When the urbane and picturesque maestro first came to the United States from his native Barcelona, he toured as a concert violinist before settling in Los Angeles to conduct an orchestra at the movie rendezvous, "Cocoanut Grove." While writing scores for motion pictures, he painted the curtain for the Chinese Theatre in Hollywood and also did caricatures of film stars for national magazines. Coming to New York, Cugat conducted an all-Spanish ensemble at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and inaugurated the rumba, tango and samba vogue. Many of the south-of-the-border rhythms he plays are his own compositions.

'Price Control—For Prosperity Week' Proclaimed In County

PUBLIC URGED TO JOIN FIGHT ON INFLATION

Mayors Point Out Inflation Is Real Danger To U. S. Peacetime Economy

"Price Control—for Prosperity" week started Monday in Pickaway county.

The special observance was officially proclaimed by the mayors of Circleville, Ashville, New Holland and Williamsport.

Mayors Ben H. Gordon, T. R. Acord, Warren M. Arthur and William F. Heiskell urged "every patriotic citizen to cooperate enthusiastically in the anti-inflation program, to the end that we may attain lasting economic security."

"Price Control—for Prosperity" week is being sponsored by the OPA in an effort to stimulate public interest in the fight against inflation. Many interests have been trying to get price increases but the OPA has fought them because of the fear of inflation if prices are permitted to be raised.

The mayor's proclamation calling attention to the special "week" states:

1. Whereas, the prevention of inflation during the reconversion period is essential to our return to a stable peace-time economy, and

2. Whereas, because of the present unbalance between supply and demand, inflationary pressures are at an all-time high, and

3. Whereas, the citizens of Pickaway county have banded themselves together in our true democratic fashion in a campaign to prevent a catastrophic price rise similar to that which followed World War I, and

4. Now therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon, mayor of City of Circleville, T. R. Acord, mayor of Ashville, Warren M. Arthur, mayor of New Holland, William F. Heiskell, mayor of Williamsport, of Pickaway county, do hereby proclaim the week of December 3, 1945, through December 8, 1945, as "Price Control—for Prosperity" week, and exhort every patriotic citizen to cooperate enthusiastically in the anti-inflation program, to the end that we may attain lasting economic security, and

5. Given under my hand, etc., this 3rd day of December in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-five.

Signed, Ben H. Gordon, mayor of Circleville, T. R. Acord, mayor of Ashville, Warren M. Arthur, mayor of New Holland, William F. Heiskell, mayor of Williamsport.

MISS JOHNSON FIRST DECEMBER BABY IN CITY

Meredith Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson of 426 East Union street, has been crowned Circleville's first baby for December and will receive prizes from various local merchants in honor of the occasion.

First child for the Johnsons, Meredith tipped the Berger hospital scales at 6 pounds, 14 3/4 ounces, after being born at the hospital at 4:43 p. m. Sunday. Dr. Lloyd Jones, 152 1/2 West Main street, was the attending physician.

To the baby will go a quart of milk daily for two weeks furnished by the Blue Ribbon Dairy, a $1 worth of merchandise from the W. T. Grant Co.'s infant department and a $1 savings account to be started by the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

The parents of the newborn will also be honored and will receive a lovely floral tribute from Bremer's floral company, a carton of six light bulbs from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and a free three months' subscription to the Circleville Herald.

Parents of the first baby must call at the Herald office and receive a certificate which will entitle them to gifts and prizes offered by the various merchants.

'Price Control—For Prosperity Week' Proclaimed In County

PUBLIC URGED TO JOIN FIGHT ON INFLATION

Mayors Point Out Inflation Is Real Danger To U. S. Peacetime Economy

"Price Control—for Prosperity" week started Monday in Pickaway county.

The special observance was officially proclaimed by the mayors of Circleville, Ashville, New Holland and Williamsport.

Mayors Ben H. Gordon, T. R. Acord, Warren M. Arthur and William F. Heiskell urged "every patriotic citizen to cooperate enthusiastically in the anti-inflation program, to the end that we may attain lasting economic security."

"Price Control—for Prosperity" week is being sponsored by the OPA in an effort to stimulate public interest in the fight against inflation. Many interests have been trying to get price increases but the OPA has fought them because of the fear of inflation if prices are permitted to be raised.

The mayor's proclamation calling attention to the special "week" states:

1. Whereas, the prevention of inflation during the reconversion period is essential to our return to a stable peacetime economy, and
 2. Whereas, because of the present unbalance between supply and demand, inflationary pressures are at an all-time high, and
 3. Whereas, the citizens of Pickaway county have banded themselves together in our true democratic fashion in a campaign to prevent a catastrophic price rise similar to that which followed World War I, and
 4. Now therefore, I, Ben H. Gordon, mayor of City of Circleville, T. R. Acord, mayor of Ashville, Warren M. Arthur, mayor of New Holland, William F. Heiskell, mayor of Williamsport, of Pickaway county, do hereby proclaim the week of December 3, 1945, through December 8, 1945, as "Price Control—for Prosperity" week, and exhort every patriotic citizen to cooperate enthusiastically in the anti-inflation program, to the end that we may attain lasting economic security, and,
 5. Given under my hand, etc., this 3rd day of December in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Forty-five.
- Signed, Ben H. Gordon, mayor of Circleville, T. R. Acord, mayor of Ashville, Warren M. Arthur, mayor of New Holland, William F. Heiskell, mayor of Williamsport.

WALNUT PLANTING URGED

LINCOLN, Neb.—Few trees of commercial quality and size remain in Nebraska, according to extension foresters of the state university.

Farmers are being urged to plant walnut trees to remedy the situation. A walnut planting and management project has been suggested for 4-H club members in the state, and a commercial house has offered prizes to encourage participation in the work.

LION CUB GOES A-BEGGING

INDIANAPOLIS—Ralph Stafford of Indianapolis, a former carnival operator, has disposed of a bear, a badger and several monkeys left over from his side show, but he is having trouble selling a one-year-old lion through the classified columns of an Indianapolis newspaper. He has had plenty of prospective buyers but all seem reluctant to decide the lion is just the kind of pet for which they are shopping.

APPLE TREE RUSHES SEASON

MANILLA, Ia.—An apple tree on the LaVerne Jorgensen farm near here bore a large crop of apples this Summer and is now in full bloom.

'ADVERTISE' HIS READING

INDIANAPOLIS—A youth had fellow passengers in an Indianapolis office building elevator worried. He was reading a book entitled, "How to Pick Pockets."
